Georgia Cotton Adds $5,000 to Smith War Chest

WALKER IN ROLE OF AUCTIONEER

News of Successful Sale of Cotton Sent by Airplane Received With Enthusiasm in Atlanta.

Georgia's first bale of cotton for 1928, sent to New York by airplane to help swell the war chest of Governor Al Smith in his campaign for presidency of the United States, was sold at auction in a Broadway theater Wednesday night for $5,000, reported to be the largest price ever paid in the history of the world.

The bale, was knocked down to Barron G. Collier, head of the advertising company which bears that name, according to Associated Press dispatches.

Mayor James J. Walker was acting in the role of auctioneer and under the stimulus of the mayor's banter the price climbed rapidly. The first bid was for $2,000 continuing to rise until the offer of Mr. Collier was called three times and the bid declared accepted. Called to the stage he said: "I am glad to give my money to help my friend, the governor."

Senator Pat Harrison, Mississippi, representing the national democratic committee, said before the auction: "This ugly looking thing represents the product that has made the south and I hope the gold that will flow into the campaign coffers from its sale will represent the volume of money that will flow to the farmer from the sale of his products."

Atlanta Enthusiasm.

News of the successful auction of the bale was received with enthusiasm in Atlanta. Wednesday night over radio by members of the Atlanta Commercial exchange, who launched the plan which brought the substantial contribution to the cause of democracy.

"It's the largest price a bale of cotton ever brought," declared T. W. Tift, president of the exchange.

Hope Tigner, secretary of the exchange, in commenting upon the price brought by the cotton, recalled that Georgia cotton, grown in Meriwether county and fabricated in Manchester, Ga., cotton mills made up the fabric used in "The Spirit of St. Louis," famous plane of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh.

The first bale of Georgia cotton, as a usual thing, is sent to Savannah for auction. This year plans were changed and the first cotton of the season, grown by C. O. Smith, of Monticello, was sent to Atlanta and taken in charge by the Commercial exchange here.

Exchange Buys Cotton.

Officers of the exchange conceived the plan of using the bale to boost the cause of democracy. With J. Hope Tigner, secretary, wielding the hammer, spirited bidding for the bale

AGENT CAMPBELL NAMED RECEIVER

Georgia Head of Defunct International Life Insurance Co. Appointed for Protection of Holders.

H. W. Campbell, general agent for many years of the International Life Insurance company, of St. Louis, Mo., Wednesday was appointed receiver for the company in the northern district of Georgia by Federal Judge Samuel H. Sibley in an order issued on a petition filed by James R. Bachman, a policy holder.

Bachman's suit against the company asked for the appointment of a temporary receiver for assets of the company in this jurisdiction, the petitioner alleging that the company's assets in the northern district of Georgia amount to approximately $100,000.

The receiver, under the order issued by Judge Sibley, will operate the business, collect premiums and hold the premiums pending further order of the court.

In his petition, Bachman pointed out that receivers have been appointed by the federal judge in the eastern district of Missouri and by the state court in Missouri. Unless the policy holders in Georgia obtain possession of assets, they will not receive the amounts due on their policies, Bachman set out.

Campbell's appointment as receiver was, in part, as a means of carrying out the plan adopted to enable policyholders to keep their policies in force pending efforts to refinance the company, Campbell said Wednesday. He called attention to the fact that under Judge Sibley's order, all payments of premiums must be made to him as receiver, and that he is ordered to keep these premiums in an account separate from other funds, and unless arrangements are made for carrying on the policies of the company the premiums will be returned to policy holders, less a reasonable deduction for administering expenses. The court order provided that any persons who pay their premiums to the receiver under this arrangement will have their policies continued in effect, according to their terms.

Mr. Campbell said that he had received a telegram from St. Louis indicating that there is a great probability of the finances of the company being rearranged so that the policies can be carried on and that these arrangements, it is thought, can be completed in not more than a week or 10 days.

The face value of the policies in Georgia are said to total more than $4,000,000.

Details Are Lacking.

St. Petersburg, Fla., August 15.—(P)—Charles Egerton, of Atlantic City, N. J., was killed and the pilot of the Pan American Airways, Inc., tri-motored plane, General Machado, was injured when the plane, en route from Havana to Key West, was blown 150 miles off its course and forced down in the Gulf of Mexico, approximately 120 miles off Tampa, early tonight, according to a wireless dispatch from the steamship Ligonier to the coast guard station here.

Three other persons aboard the General Machado were reported as saved by the steamship which notified the coast guard that she had put back to Tampa bar, 30 miles off here.

Take Off Men.

The coast guard cutter Kimball has been ordered to meet the Ligonier and take off the four survivors and Egerton's body.

The plane, overdue at Key West since 5 o'clock, landed beside the steamship Ligonier, seven hours off of Tampa in the Gulf of Mexico.

The message sent by H. O. Lenter, radio operator on the plane, said the plane hit the water hard and that one man was dead.

No explanation was given for the plane being several hundred miles off its course.

The message received here said that "Milton Kat and Alphonsus were rescued. The plane carried two passengers and a crew of three. The three men referred to are the pilot, one passenger and one member of the crew."

Time Calculated.

The rescue effected about 120 miles west-southwest of St. Petersburg, navigators here estimated tonight, figuring the speed of the ship and calculating elapsed time.

The rescue craft will be met at the bar, at the mouth of Tampa bay and return about midnight by the launch.

The place where the plane came down alongside the steamer is roughly about 200 miles west-northwest of Key West.

Johnny Green, veteran pilot, said tonight that the plane probably had been blown from her course and that the flyers were wandering aimlessly about seeking land and probably were

2 WOMEN INJURED
BY NEGRO BANDIT

One Victim Knocked Unconscious But Robbery Attempt Fails; Thief Is Caught in House.

Two women were injured in a hold-up attempt, but escaped robbery, and a negro was captured through the aid of an unloaded shotgun, as he prowled through a home late Wednesday night.

As Mrs. Grace Hand, of 979 Crescent avenue, and Mrs. G. A. Wiley, of 1269 Lucile avenue, were walking on Hopkins street, between Lucile and Greenwich avenues about 9 o'clock at night they were approached by a negro hold-up man, who using a black-jack, without warning struck Mrs. Hand over the head, knocking her unconscious.

Mrs. Wiley then started screaming for help, and the bandit struck her on the back with his weapon and then fled the scene.

Motorcycle Officers J. A. Bailey and J. B. Quinn, who were called to the scene to investigate, could find no trace of the bandit. The two women stated that they believed they could identify the negro, and gave the officers a good description of him.

Covered by an unloaded shot gun, Sherman Scott, 25-year-old negro, was caught late at night as he prowled through the apartment of R. E. Wiley, at 888 Boulevard, N. E., and held until Call Officers Cartright and Higgins arrived.

Mr. Wiley was awakened when the negro entered his room and called for help. His brother, B. Wiley, who lives in the next room, and L. Van Ling, who lives on the floor above rushed into the room when they heard the cries. Mr. Van Ling had a shotgun and immediately covered the negro. Scott is being held on a blanket charge of suspicion.

'SOUTH IS SAFE,'
DANIELS ASSURES
GOVERNOR SMITH

Dry North Carolinian Says Democratic Nominee Need Not Worry Over Southern Vote.

BY PERCY B. SCOTT.
Albany, N. Y., August 15.—(United News).—The "solid south" will go to the polls for Alfred E. Smith, the New York governor was assured today by Joseph Daniels, of Raleigh, N. C., secretary of the navy in the cabinet of President Wilson.

Daniels discussed directly with newspapermen his conference with the democratic presidential candidate only insofar as to say he would tell Smith of "conditions in the south."

Speaks Freely.

But speaking to newspapermen of these same conditions before he saw the governor, he used words freely.

He told newspapermen he did not personally consider prohibition the most important issue of the campaign, but he has ever known before, and many of us in the south think much depends on it.

Daniels Is Dry.

Daniels' own attitude toward prohibition is well known. One of his important acts as secretary of the navy was to give the United States a bone-dry fighting fleet. His newspaper, the Raleigh News and Observer, has waged an unremitting war for prohibition enforcement.

"Some people in the south who are bone-dry democrats probably will be for Mr. Hoover," said Daniels, "but there are more who are troubled over the question whether they can vote for Smith in view of their attitude towards prohibition. That is the attitude, of course, of those who think that prohibition is the only issue in the campaign."

"In reality," said Daniels, "the paramount issue in the campaign is that there must be a change of administration at Washington."

"We must," he said, "clean out the place where graft and favoritism have been dominant."

G. O. P. Is Assailed.

Speaking for the democrats of North Carolina, Daniels assailed prohibition enforcement by the republican party and said Hoover's enforcement pledge was a disappointment to dry North Carolinians.

The opposition to Governor Smith in my state is due to the fact that North Carolina is very dry and the people there fear Smith is not as dry as they might be," he said.

"It is a great mistake," he said, "to say most of the opposition in the south to Smith is due to his church affiliation."

"Such a statement is a great lie."

New York, August 15.—(P)—A pair of red dice with a "seven" up, a few poems and a sheet of paper on which had been typed "The Ten Commandments of Married Life" told the police today that 18-year-old Anna Hand had gambled with a career and lost.

The young woman's body was found in a gas-filled room in Brooklyn last night. Dice and papers lay on a table. There was a penciled note, too, that read: "I have nothing against anyone. Love to you all, Anna."

The commandments, apparently written by Miss Green, set forth rules for a successful marriage.

"Remember you are both human, you are not perfect, and you are liable to error," said one.

"Live within your means; do not strive to imitate your neighbors, relatives or friends," read another.

"Belong to the home of God—both of you—be active in it and God will bless you for it," was the last.

Miss Green's body was identified by her father, who said the girl had left home a year and a half ago to seek a career in literature or on the stage.

Rockford, Ill., August 15.—(P)—Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, pilot and navigator of the monoplane "Greater Rockford," will hop off at 6 a. m. tomorrow on the first leg of their proposed flight to Sweden, it was announced tonight.

They plan to arrive at Cochrane, Ont., eight hours after their take off.

Hassell intends to spend Thursday night there, refuel, and hop again Friday morning for Mt. Evans, Greenland, 1,600 miles beyond.

Hassell's first attempt two weeks ago ended in a forced landing in a cornfield, close to the flying field. His plane was repaired and was ready to take off this morning, but an adverse weather report forced a postponement.

Tonight the big ship, thoroughly tuned, rests in its hangar at the end of the elongated runway of the Rockford airport, ready to start.

"This time," said Hassell, "we're going to make it."

Weather conditions were pronounced ideal.

MISS RUTHERFORD,
BELOVED GEORGIAN
PASSES AT ATHENS

End Comes to Noted Educator and Author at Home, Following Lingering Illness.

Athens, Ga., August 15.—(Special.) Miss Mildred Lewis Rutherford, one of the most prominent and best beloved women in Georgia, died at her home here at 10 o'clock Wednesday night following a lingering illness.

Miss Rutherford was in her seventy-eighth year at the time of her death and her passing will be the occasion for her mourning among hundreds of friends throughout the state.

Funeral services will be held from the First Baptist church, of Athens, at 11 o'clock Friday morning.

Miss Rutherford was born in Athens July 16, 1851, and was the daughter of Professor Williams Rutherford, of the University of Georgia, and Laura Battaille Rootes (Cobb). She graduated from Lucy Cobb institute in 1868 and much of her life work and interest had been centered around that institution. In 1923 the University of Georgia, where her father had taught, honored her with an honorary degree.

Led Active Life.

Miss Rutherford's life was devoted to education, literature and the cause of the southern Confederacy. From 1880 to 1908 she was either co-principal or principal of Lucy Cobb institute and was president of that school from 1917 to 1922, when she resigned. She was president of the Ladies' Memorial Society of Athens from 1888 until her death and was also life state historian of the Georgia division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. From 1911 to 1916 she was historian general of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. In 1921 she was made historian general of the Confederate Memorial association and was also an officer of the Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial association.

Miss Rutherford was one of the south's best known authors and lecturers. Among her compositions were "English Authors," "American Authors," "French Authors," "Bible Question Book," "The South in History and Literature," "The Scrape Book" and a number of booklets, pamphlets and lectures on southern history.

Miss Rutherford, known to her Lucy Cobb girls and hundred of friends as "Miss Millie," was a true daughter of the old south and she never tired of relating about the valor, the bravery and the chivalry of the "boys who wore the gray" in the war she always spoke of as the war between the states, fought for states rights, rather than over the slavery question. Many of her famous lectures, delivered in every part of the country, north, south, east and west, were delivered while wearing a hoop-skirted dress of ante-bellum colonial days.

The Confederate soldier was Miss Rutherford's hero and inspiration in life. The cause of the Confederacy was sacred to her and never once during her long and colorful life did she ever waver in her love, devotion and reverence for the principles over which the great war was fought from her point of view. One of her tasks in life was setting aright the history on the south and never did a statement from pen or mouth go unchallenged by her when she thought the cause for Occupants of East Macon Homes Forced To Flee Houses as Ocmulgee Goes on Rampage.

ALL MILLEDGEVILLE CRIPPLED BY FLOOD

Dam Above Quitman Breaks and Water Is Reported Rushing on Brooks County Villages.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Rapidly rising streams in three southeastern states tonight carried a menace to the lowlands in their valleys and spelled doom for crops growing on their fertile banks.

Brimful from last week's torrential rains that accompanied a tropical disturbance whipping through Georgia, North and South Carolina, the rivers and creeks tonight were rampaging as their watersheds tumbled additional burdens into their channels following recurrence of the downpours last night and today.

Dams Endangered.

Power dams along the creeks and rivers were endangered, as many of the streams climbed toward record heights, and in Georgia two mill pond dams collapsed before the pressure of rising waters behind them, releasing their floods on the sparsely settled Okaloosa creek.

Brice dam, a structure impounding a 17,000-acre lake, located 17 miles north of Quitman, collapsed in three places, releasing its flood into Okaloosa creek, but inhabitants below had been warned in time to prevent loss of life. The greatest damage from the flood released was expected to be borne by highways along the creek; four bridges were believed doomed and the torrents had submerged one highway. Melton dam, creating another mill pond below the Brice dyke was said to have collapsed, adding further to the burden carried by Okaloosa creek.

Quitman was isolated tonight and an Atlantic Coast line passenger train was marooned there because of floods that swept across its tracks.

Ocmulgee Rising.

The Ocmulgee at Macon was rising rapidly, reaching a stage of 20.9 feet late today and was expected to register 24 feet before it starts to recede. Flood stage is 18 feet. Milledgeville, without a drinking water supply for the second time within a week, due to floods, looked for a stage of 34 feet on the Ocmulgee river stage before morning. The Altamaha

"EVERY PNEUMATIC TIRE OF OUR MANUFACTURE BEARING OUR NAME AND SERIAL NUMBER IS WARRANTED BY US AGAINST DEFECTS IN MATERIAL AND WORKMANSHIP DURING THE LIFE OF THE TIRE TO THE EXTENT THAT IF ANY TIRE FAILS BECAUSE OF SUCH DEFECT, WE WILL EITHER REPAIR THE TIRE OR MAKE A REASONABLE ALLOWANCE ON THE PURCHASE OF A NEW TIRE."

The manufacturers listed below, who produce over 95% of the tires made in America, guarantee tires bearing their names and serial numbers against defects for the entire life of the tires

Lincoln C. Andrews

Director General, THE RUBBER INSTITUTE, INC.

Those familiar with tire history will remember the early experimental days when the only way a manufacturer could express his confidence in his product was by offering a definite mileage guarantee.

They will recall how, due to misuse, the definite figure inevitably was pushed beyond all sensible bounds.

As tires improved in quality the whole theory and practice of "definite mileage" commitments was pushed into the background and finally rejected by standard tire companies as unfair and uneconomical to the tire-user.

It had proved itself to be fundamentally unsound.

Its abuse by unscrupulous drivers confronted the manufacturer with the alternatives of higher prices or lower quality to meet the added costs of unjustified allowances.

Perhaps its most unfair feature was that it benefited the driver who misused his tires and misrepresented his mileage at the cost of the honest and careful driver who did not abuse his tires.

Its passing was welcomed by trade and public alike because it had come to be used as an unfair sales inducement rather than as a protection for the buyer.

The industry then shifted from the costly advertising of mileage claims to the building of real mileage into the tires.

As a result, tire values have steadily improved, to the benefit of all users alike, although prices are today the lowest in history.

The prevailing practice of these manufacturers, who produce over 95% of the tires in the United States, is expressed by the broadest standard tire guarantee in the history of the industry.

The members of the Rubber Institute, Inc., listed below, warrant tires bearing their names and serial numbers to be free from all defects of material or workmanship.

This warranty is unlimited as to time or mileage, the manufacturer's responsibility continuing throughout the entire life of the tire.

In case of the failure of the tire due to defect, no matter how far or how long that tire has traveled, fair and equitable adjustment will be made by the manufacturer on the basis of the tire's normal expectancy of service had the defect not appeared.

It is the intent and purpose of this warranty to assure the buyer a quality product capable of satisfactory performance, the responsibility for which the manufacturer of the tire hereby assumes.

—a guarantee broader in its protection to the individual, yet fairer in its operation to all, than anything now or ever placed before the public.

Auditor Slate Pleads For Modern Methods Of State Government

Antiquated System of Various Departments Are Deplored in Address Before State Editors.

Statesboro, Ga., August 15.—(AP)—Welcoming, he said, the opportunity of discussing with representatives of the press certain plans of progress and reform in state government, Sam J. Slate, state auditor, reiterated that his program for reorganization and reduction of state departments and more modern methods of tax collection contained nothing of partisan politics.

Mr. Slate's address before the Georgia Press association, bristled, with claims that Georgia has an outgrown, antiquated inefficient method of collecting taxes through several departments.

Moreover, he set out, boards, departments, institutions have been multiplied in Georgia departmental government until today there is the following ungrouped category of: 29 departments, 26 boards, 24 higher educational institutions, three experiment stations, three eleemosynary institutions, three corrective institutions and three eleemosynary and charitable institutions.

"Our present system of organization penses are inevitable," for a $24,000,000 corporation, he explained, is the size now attained by Georgia's government.

Legislative Remedy.
Recommending legislative action as the sole way to remedy the evil, the state auditor declared his whole discussion was directed to the administrative or executive branch of the government, "and does not discuss the legislative or judicial except so far as the legislature is concerned."

Mr. Slate thought that a commission might study Georgia's governmental needs with reference to the state's peculiar conditions, and such a system, he said, would be preferable to trying to adopt the system of another state.

Simplification of government through elimination of unnecessary departments, a determination of the amount necessary to be raised to support the system, so as to provide for expansion and proper economical functioning of every department and institution would form preliminary steps in the reorganization, the speaker said.

Chicago, is charged with grand larceny of company's assets.

Testimony was given that an alleged bogus stock certificate for 10,000 shares of International Life was "overlaid" by James Bruce, of Baltimore, a vice president of the National Park bank of New York.

More Certificates Traced.
Testimony also revealed three like certificates for 3,000 shares each were used by Toombs in borrowing $80,000 from E. P. Greenwood, president of the Great Southern Life Insurance company, of Houston, Texas. These certificates had been purchased in part at least, by genuine certificates of stock.

C. L. Breunbaum, secretary-treasurer of the International company, holding corporation of the International Life, testified that last March he signed and delivered four blank preferred certificates to George E. Toombs, then president of the holding company, and a brother of Roy C. Toombs, but that no accounting had been made.

Received $15,000.
Breunbaum said he was told by Toombs they contemplated selling some stock to clients in Denver. Last month, Breunbaum related, he learned E. L. Perry, of Denver, not a stockholder of record, held a certificate for 5,000 shares. Perry stated he purchased the certificate from Roy C. Toombs for $15,000 cash.

Pay roll economies are a part of the insurance commission's plan for rehabilitation. One of the first salaries they propose to strike from the roll is the $15,000 of George E. Toombs, director of personnel and close adviser of Toombs.

rescue league to carry out the "sleep" request in the will.

Mrs. M. R. Blumberg, vice president of the league, drove over to Matus' home. She found Pal still watching and waiting on the porch. It was with great difficulty that a turntable was placed on his muzzle so he could be taken away.

She stroked his sleek coat, as fine as spun silk, talked to him quietly and offered him food. Pal persisted in his refusal to eat.

"When we drove away," Mrs. Blumberg said, "Pal stood up in the back of the car with his eyes fixed on his old home. He continued to stare until we turned the corner, and all the time he was whining and crying. I've seen a lot of this sort of thing, but this was the most pathetic case of all. My eyes were so filled with tears, I could hardly see to drive."

It is best that he be dead, for he was utterly broken hearted. His master was the one thing in his life that meant anything to him. It was thoughtful of Mr. Matus to request that the dog be "put to sleep" in case of his death.

There is one person who will miss Pal, and that is Gloria Matus, four-year-old daughter of the drowned couple. So far she has not been told that her father and mother will never come back and that her days of play with Pal are over.

"Indisposed"

Sometimes it's the "nerves." Other times, systemic. But whatever the cause of an aching head, there's an antidote. Bayer Aspirin stops such pain. Millions wouldn't use it if it didn't! And doctors wouldn't tell men and women to take it freely, if they didn't know it to be perfectly harmless. (Has no effect whatever on the heart.) Genuine Aspirin has Bayer on the box, and proven directions inside.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacturing Co. of Monroeville, Pa.

NEW YORK G. O. P. CHAIRMAN DEAD

New York, August 15.—(AP)—George K. Morris, 45, chairman of the republican state committee, died of apoplexy today in his room at the Hotel Drake.

Mr. Morris, a knit goods manufacturer of Amsterdam, N. Y., where his mills are located, had breakfast this morning with Charles D. Hilles, New York member of the republican national committee. He had returned to his room when the stroke that resulted fatally came on.

News of the death was sent to republican headquarters. Officials there notified Miss Sarah Schuyler Butler, vice chairman of the committee, who was in Southampton. Miss Butler, daughter of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, said word that she would come to New York immediately. It is expected that she will hold the chairmanship temporarily.

Mr. Morris returned recently from California, where he conferred with Herbert Hoover, his party's national nominee, regarding the national campaign in New York state. At the Kansas City convention he had favored the nomination of President Coolidge until it became apparent that Mr. Morris would not be a candidate, then he declared for Hoover.

Mr. Morris' removal by death from the leadership of the republican party in New York state was a blow. Lieutenant Governor Edwin Corning had announced his resignation as chairman of the democratic state committee because of ill health.

which the stout went to war was stated or spoken of lightly.

Entertained Veterans.
It was a custom of hers for years before her death to entertain the Athenians in New York state. At a dinner and entertainment features on April 26, the day set aside as Confederate Memorial day in Georgia.

Daughter of a distinguished southern family she was beloved and honored by all who knew her and in her death the old south lost one of its few remaining daughters, while the gray-clad hosts of the confederacy lost their staunchest defender and ardent lover.

FLOODS THREATEN TOWNS IN GEORGIA

ha and Flint rivers also were rising in southern Georgia. The Apalachee, further south, also were rampaging and were expected to reach their highest levels in years.

Crops in lowlands contiguous to the streams were said to be doomed and highways and railroads through the southern part of the state were badly damaged. Train service over several routes being suspended and over other routes were running hours behind schedule.

Bridge Endangered.

Approaches to the highway bridge across the Oconee at Milledgeville were carried away by the stream late today and 1,500 feet of the Georgia railroad track nearby was washed out. The force of the current carrying the heavy rails 50 feet from the roadbed. A string of loaded cars was run out on the railroad's steel trestle tonight in an attempt to hold it in place.

Poor dams in North and South Carolina were threatened by raging torrents, while an avalanche of earth slid down across the Southern Railway tracks near Asheville, N. C., after a drenching rain, blocking all traffic over the route.

Residents in the valley below the Bee Tree dam at Asheville have been warned to vacate their homes, as the structure is threatened with destruction by the unprecedented torrents piling up behind it. A few families refused to move, but others sought shelter in the municipal auditorium in Asheville to care for hundreds of refugees expected there before morning.

Families Fleeing.
Families in the South Pacific river valley above Tyron, N. C., also were vacating, as the stream spread beyond its banks. The Clifton Textile Mill dam No. 2 on Pacolet river collapsed tonight and was reported surging through the second floor of the plant.

At Ninety-nine Islands, S. C., on Broad river, water was said to be pouring over the Southern Power company dam at a depth of five feet. Scores of houses were badly damaged in Newberry county, South Carolina, when the water broke through the dam.

Quitman, Ga., August 15.—(AP)—A warning reached Quitman tonight that the Bee Tree dam, above the city, has broken and also the Melton dam has gone out, releasing two of the largest bodies of water in this section. The flood is now on its way to Oglethorpe, where it is believed bridges will go when the crest arrives.

Quitman is isolated tonight and the floods are rising at the rate of 1 foot per hour, which does not include as yet the volume of water from Bee and Melton. The city of Quitman is in no danger from floods.

BELIEVE NO LIFE LOST IN DAM BREAK.
Jacksonville, Fla., August 15.—(AP)—A. Clanton, chief of police at Quitman, Ga., told the Associated Press here in a long distance telephone message tonight that the Bee Tree dam, 17 miles north of the city, broke in three places today, sending Oklawaha creek out of its banks all the way down its course to the Withlacoochee river. Residents living in the sparsely settled lowlands in the flood path had been warned in ample time to move to higher ground, Clanton said, and no loss of life was expected.

CAROLINA STREAMS NEAR DANGER LINE.
Charlotte, N. C., August 15.—(AP)—High waters in western Carolina's streams were tonight menacing lives and property for the second time within a week, as city and country rental rainfall over the section. Early reports from towns in both North and South Carolina indicated that already considerable damage had been done to railroads, highways and crops and that all streams are rising rapidly.

The city of Asheville, N. C., has notified people living below the huge Bee Tree dam to vacate their property and officers are assisting those dwelling on the river banks to get away. A number of families have refused to move although water is said to be lapping within a few feet of their doorways.

Highways Patrolled.
Patrols have been placed on all highways warning motorists. Twenty refugees had sought shelter at the Salvation Army canteen early tonight and others were being placed in the Asheville municipal auditorium to accommodate the other hundreds expected before morning. An estimated number of families are reported to have already been rendered homeless.

Families were also moving out of the South Pacific river valley above Tyron, N. C. The dam of the Clifton Textile Mill No. 2 on the Pacolet by a wind storm, while a freakish tornado swept Bath, S. C., wrecking upward of 50 houses, and injuring one person slightly.

Recovering from a flood last week, Spartanburg, S. C., tonight prepared for the worst inundation since 1916. A heavy rain pounded the city through the late day, while Chiquiquin and Fairforest creeks, rose steadily, gradually engulfing the Beaufort and Arkwright textile mill villages, which were inundated last night.

Pacolo River Rises.
The Pacolo river in South Carolina, carrying a six-inch rain from the Saluda mountains in North Carolina, was steadily and threatened numerous mills along its course.

Spartanburg had approximately eight inches of rain in the past 24 hours.

Highways and railroads in North and South Carolina, as well as lowland crops, were being swept away by the rain in the streams in the eastern portion of the two states.

GRAVE FLOOD CRISIS AT MILLEDGEVILLE.

Milledgeville, Ga., August 15.—(Special)—The euroches to the Oconee river bridge on the Sandersville-Sparta-Milledgeville highway were broken through last Wednesday by flood waters resulting from the recent heavy rains. The roadbed for a quarter of a mile west of the river was cut out of the road by rushing water.

All traffic has been entirely cut off toward Augusta; several carloads of lumber in the yards of the Georgia Lumber company were washed away and the company's office building is being threatened.

The McMillan Brick Works here was flooded, with enormous property damage along the Oconee river. Fishermen are camped on the river.

The steel bridge spanning the creek on the lower Macdon road, has been washed downstream; a new fill built this city and the state sanitarium across the creek on the Irwinton-Gordon highway was swept away and travel in that direction entirely shut off.

Bridges in Peril.
Mail for the state sanitarium was being carried over improvised foot bridges Wednesday, and the Georgia railroad places a string of loaded freight cars on the track which spans Fishing creek to hold the trestle. At Milledgeville, however, water already covered the trestle and was still rising Wednesday night. It was feared the trestle would give way before morning.

In Grantland swamp, near Panacea, 3,500 feet of the Central of Georgia's tracks and creeks were flooded away and 1,500 feet of steel rails were washed away from their original roadbed in another section close by.

The trestle over Camp creek has been washed away and it is estimated that even with no more rain falling and full working crews on the job it will be impossible for the Central to operate trains from this city to Gordon for a week.

In the city of Milledgeville, the main supply pipe, all manufacturing plants, and the city water works is paralyzed. The Oconee river and tributary streams in this neighborhood are higher than since the flood of 1916. The water is still rising. It is not believed that the flood crest has yet been reached, as the water is rising at the rate of one foot an hour. Wednesday night the rain still was pouring down steadily.

PECAN GROWERS SUFFER BIG LOSS.

Thomasville, Ga., August 15.—(AP)—Extensive damage was caused to the pecan industry as a result of the tropical storm which swept west of here last night, lashing the surrounding country with winds of gale force and driving rains.

Thousands of pounds of nearly ripened pecan nuts were blown from the trees. In some instances the trees were broken by the wind and the heavy rain. The city, much lumber (lumber was destroyed).

Highways entering the city from the east, west and south were impassable, the main road remaining open, being the highway to Albany, north of here. Atlantic Coast Line passenger train No. 157, en route from Jacksonville and Savannah to Montgomery, was marooned today by a washout near Piedmont, east of here. The passengers were without food and access to the train was not possible for several hours. A relief party was organized, and the passengers will be removed to Quitman.

The Okechoke river has reached the highest flood stage ever recorded, menacing wide stretches of lowlands. Prospects were that the water would pour a much greater flood into the river during the next 24 hours.

Quitman, Ga., August 15.—(AP)—A warning reached Quitman tonight that the Bee Tree dam, above the city, has broken and also the Melton dam has gone out, releasing two of the largest bodies of water in this section. The flood is now on its way to Oglethorpe, where it is believed bridges will go when the crest arrives.

Families were also moving out of the South Pacific river valley above Tyron, N. C. The dam of the Clifton Textile Mill No. 2 on the Pacolet river collapsed early tonight and water was reported to be sweeping over second floor of the plant. Several important bridges in the vicinity were reported washed away. Water was said to be five feet over the Southern Power company dam at Ninety-nine Islands, S. C., on the Broad river in Cherokee county.

Many Houses Razed.
Late reports from Newberry county, S. C., showed that more than a score of houses had been destroyed or badly damaged at times by stiff winds. Spartanburg tonight was facing a storm that promised to inflict more damage than that of last Saturday morning. Two mills, Beaufort and Arkwright, flooded Saturday, are already partly under water with Chiquiquin and Fairforest creeks threatening the villages.

Telephone and telegraph lines into sections of upper South Carolina west of Spartanburg were down and reports were meager. Two textile mills near the city of Spartanburg, the Beaufort and Arkwright, were reported partially under water with streams coursing through the villages sweeping over their banks into the streets.

River Out of Banks.
The middle Tiger river was reported out of its banks near Lyman, Spartanburg county, and residents of the community were moving out of their homes for higher ground. Two houses had been washed away. A landslide near Asheville blocked all Southern railway traffic between that point and Spartanburg, S. C., and Salisbury, N. C., early tonight. Hope was held by railway officials that the tracks could be cleared by early tomorrow if more slides did not follow excavation. One passenger train was reported stranded near Campobello, S. C., while two buses filled with passengers are said to be blocked in the vicinity of Bats Cave, N. C. Numerous highways in both Carolinas are reported damaged already and are closed to all traffic.

Streams Rising.
With rivers already at their highest flood level since 1916, the French Broad, Swannanoa and others of western North Carolina are reported rising at the rate of a foot an hour.

Some anxiety was felt tonight for the safety of the mountain side of the French Broad, where reports indicated that flood waters were rushing down the mountain sides in both communities with considerable damage resulting, endangering lives. Both are cut off from communication.

The chief concern felt in the middle South is the heavy rain now in the region of heavy rains will have on the Broad and Saluda rivers.

FREAKISH STORM HITS BATH, S. C.

Bath, S. C., August 15.—(AP)—A freakish tornado dipped into the eastern portion of this town this afternoon, causing injury to one person and wrecked many houses and out-buildings.

Miss Ethel Boyd was the only casualty, suffering severe cuts and bruises when the home of Mrs. Nancy Wilkerson was struck by the twister and more than half of it twisted off and carried away. Five other persons in the house escaped unhurt.

Miss Boyd suffered severe cuts and bruises. Coming out of the southwest roaring like an express train, the tornado struck the eastern section of the town, twisting off telegraph and electric light poles at 45 degrees, toppling giant oak trees, lifting roofs from houses and wrecking small outbuildings.

The same suddenness that marked the tornado's descent on the town marked its passing. It swept away to the northeast across a mill pond.

Canal Is Clogged.
St. Lucie canal, principal outlet from Lake Okechoke to the Atlantic ocean, was clogged with sand and brush which prevented much drainage through that artery. Fish eating creek and a number of smaller streams had risen to within one foot of flood stage. Kissimmee river continued to pour a large quantity of water into it, and indications were that it would continue to do so for at least a week before the water, which has spread out over an area from one to five miles along a 25-mile route has been drained.

CHAMBERS LAUDS
HARDMAN RECORD

Augusta, Ga., August 14.—Gordon W. Chambers addressed a crowd here tonight estimated at 1,800, in favor of Governor L. G. Hardman for reelection to the chief executiveship of the state. Mr. Chambers spoke for about an hour and judging from the enthusiastic manner in which he was received and the applause that greeted his remarks it was evident that the crowd was all but unanimous for the governor.

A spectacular setting was provided for the address which was delivered in Allen park, one of Augusta's public playgrounds. The speaker's stand was decorated in red, white and blue bunting, a brass band furnished music and flare torches lighted up the whole scene.

In his speech Mr. Chambers covered the whole life record of Governor Hardman and his opponent in a comparative way. He denounced Rivers as part of a machine that had for years throttled the progress of Georgia and as a "demagogue type of peanut politician that was endeavoring by every insincere artifice known to political perfidy to fool the people by false appeals to emotional prejudice."

The speaker also stated that "Rivers would do anything, say anything and become anything that he thought would make the people forget his past alliances and record in defiance of the expressed will of the people."

Scores Rivers on Labor.
Mr. Chambers bitterly assailed the governor's opponent's labor record while a member of the rules committee of the senate in which committee he said "that all legislation not approved by Rivers' political master, the chairman of the highway department, died . . . that Rivers could not point to a single instance wherein he had listened to the voice of the people in defiance of his political master . . . that he always secured instruction from his chief, not the people, before he ever voted on an agricultural bill," was another ringing challenge from the speaker.

"That Governor Hardman is a man without price, steadfast in his purpose to build a greater Georgia, a devout Baptist, a champion of equal rights to all and special privileges to none," was one of Mr. Chambers' remarks in outlining the life of the governor which, he declared, was not only one of magnificent achievement and devotion to duty, but so clean in character that it had inspired the hearts of past campaigns had it all gleaming white consistent with the honor of Georgia and meriting the confidence of her citizens.
After the speaking a reception was held on the speaker's stand in which all present took part and were served refreshment.

Metcalf To Display
Cash To Be Expended
On Trip to New York

John A. Metcalf, owner and director of the four Metcalf stores in Atlanta, will leave Saturday for New York on a buying trip designed to provide extensive fall stocks of suits and overcoats, he announced Wednesday.

As a unique method of advertising the opening of his fall merchandising plans, Mr. Metcalf said he would display in the windows of the Manufacturers Outlet company, the main Metcalf store on Forsyth street, the cash which he will take to New York to make his purchases.

This sum, he added, will approximate $10,000, and the money exhibited in bills and change of various denominations is expected to arouse keen interest when placed on exhibit throughout Thursday.

Hoke Smith and Joe Brown Unite in Common Cause

For the first time in 20 years, former Senator Hoke Smith and former Governor Joseph M. Brown met in conference Wednesday at Al Smith's Georgia campaign headquarters at the Piedmont hotel, and planned their aid in the campaign to elect a democratic national as well as state ticket. Left to right, John R. Slater, Smith campaign manager in Georgia, Hoke Smith and Joseph M. Brown.

Two grizzled political veterans, whose followers in Georgia have fought ten thousand battles in the last quarter of a century and whose factions battled so bitterly as to attract national attention, faced each other Wednesday in a room in the Piedmont hotel and, shaking each other by the hand, pledged their enthusiastic support to Smith and Robinson, democratic national standard bearers. Former United States Senator Hoke Smith and Former Governor Joseph M. Brown were the leaders and they met face to face in harmony and friendship Wednesday for the first time in more than 20 years.

Back in the stormy days of the past "Ole Marster" Hoke Smith discharged "Little Joe" Brown as a member of the state railroad commission. Then "Little Joe" ran for governor and defeated Smith. The next turn of fortune favored Smith and he defeated "Little Joe." The bitterness of these fights cleaved the democratic party in twain and for years and years you had to be either a "Smith" or a "Brown" man in Georgia if you amounted to anything politically.

Smith Great Orator.
In those hectic days Governor Smith was the great orator of the day and fought his battles on the stump. On the other hand, "Little Joe" was the great political card writer and he fought his fights in newspaper statements. The battle waged on and on for many years and the personal issue between the two leaders was injected into many other races.

Meeting Wednesday in the office of John R. Slater, manager of the state democratic campaign, they pledged their earnest support to the national ticket. Both veterans, far advanced in years, were vigorous in their championship of the cause of democracy and both were insistent that the time has come to roll up an enormous and convincing democratic vote for the democratic nominees in November.

Former Governor Brown stated bluntly that he could not conceive how a southern man could ever think of voting for Hoover or the republican ticket.

"There never was but one party that stood or that stands for white supremacy and that is the democratic party. For any southern man or woman to turn against this party now would be for them to turn against all the ideals and principles for which the sainted men and women of the southern Confederacy dedicated their lives."

Tom Watson's Fight.
Governor Brown recalled incidentally the fight former United States Senator Thomas E. Watson made against Hoover, the republican nominee.

"If Senator Watson were alive today he would be thundering against Hoover," he said.

Senator Smith declared that he did not see how "any decent democrat" could vote for Hoover.

"Hoover issued an order a few weeks ago which has the effect of forcing white women to sit with negroes in the offices of his department at Washington," he said. "This order was issued just prior to the Ohio primary and was purely for the purpose of catering to the vote of the negro in the north and the east."

Both Governor Brown and Senator Smith declared that the forces supporting prohibition have more to hope for under a democratic administration than under a republican administration.

tion. They said there is practically no difference in the attitude of the charged that the republican record for farce.

SUPREME COURT
ANNOUNCES RULING
ON PARKED CARS

Georgia statutes covering operation of motor vehicles do not restrict the driver of an automobile to any particular side of the road except when the conveyances are in the actual operation of "meeting," the supreme court ruled Wednesday in reversing a finding of the court of appeals which had reversed the judgment of the trial court in denying a new trial to the guardian of Columbus Roberts, Jr., against whom a judgment of $11,500 in damages was returned in Muscogee county superior court four years ago. J. J. Phillips, plaintiff in the original damage suit, had pulled his machine to the left side of the road near Columbus, and the Roberts machine struck Phillips and his car in approaching from the opposite direction. The defendant had asked a new trial on grounds that the trial judge had omitted from his charge instructions that a person stopping on the left side with a car is under duty to be alert and exercise caution to prevent injury to other persons. The supreme court held that the statute is inoperative where the offending machine is not in motion.

COOLIDGE LAUDS ANTI-WAR TREATY

Wausau, Wis., August 15.—(AP)—Emphasizing America's earnest determination to promote international peace, President Coolidge hailed today the pending covenant for the outlawry of war as the brightest hope for peace the world has ever seen.

Addressing more than 15,000 persons at the convention of the Wisconsin American Legion, the chief executive described the Kellogg-Briand pact as an international agreement which would have prevented the catastrophe of the world war, had it been in existence in 1914.

Interrupted frequently by applause as he stood bareheaded under a canopy facing the grandstand of Marathon park, President Coolidge pointed to the anti-war treaty as witness that America's military force was not for any aggressive purposes.

Following his address the president, Mrs. Coolidge and their son, John, were made life guests of the Talbot Montgomery Post No. 10 and the auxiliary of the American Legion. Mr. Coolidge and John were presented with Wisconsin legion overseas caps and the president, smilingly, placed his cap on his head at a jaunty angle. The crowd roared its approval and a legionnaire screamed from the stand "Atta boy, Cal," another joining in with "the fish will be biting better tomorrow."

The Coolidges left for home in the afternoon and arrived at Superior, press reports said, late tonight. Several huge bouquets of roses were presented Mrs. Coolidge. She in turn presented the flowers to the disabled veterans of the state and announced by Frank Schneider, retiring commander of the state legion, that the act, brought prolonged cheering from the immense crowd packing the stand and filling the park beneath the towering pine trees.

Airplanes Overhead.
Airplanes circled over the train as it drew into the crowded city. Cannon boomed in salute and the drum corps beat a welcome. The president from the rear platform, acknowledged the greeting by waving his hand and smiling. He was borne away quickly in an open car to the train in a procession many blocks long. As the train drew out of Wausau

Sun To Displace Showers Today, Says Forecast

Damp, soggy weather of Wednesday will give way today to a dry, though partly cloudy condition, C. F. von Herrmann, United States meteorologist, forecast Wednesday. The weatherman expects today to be warmer, as the sun will get a chance to put in a little work.

Such proper functioning, Mr. Coolidge said, "means the coordination of national effort through an adequately trained citizenship, which will result in a scientific production and distribution of commodities that will raise the standard of living around every fireside in the land."

6,000 ARE STRICKEN BY DENGUE FEVER AT GREEK CAPITAL

Athens, August 15.—(AP)—Dengue fever has lately appeared in Athens and while the number of cases is unknown, it is said probably to exceed 6,000.

The nature of the fever is not dangerous and is very rarely fatal.

Southbound Air Mail Plane Down At Greensboro, N. C.

Greensboro, N. C., August 15.—(AP)—The southbound air mail plane, piloted by Capt. J. H. Smith, crashed today because of a storm. The plane landed without difficulty and no damage was done. The mail was transferred to a train.

Brown plans to return to Richmond tonight with the northbound air mail, if weather conditions permit.

running low of gasoline when they sighted the lights of the steamer and made a landing on the water beside it.

Messages Received.

The messages picked up here read: "Plane down alongside Ligonier. Hit water hard. Myself and Alphonse rescued. Eggston in ship. Trying to get him out."

A second message read:

"Am safe. All well. Hugo."

It was addressed to the La Concha hotel, Key West.

The third message read:

"Coming to Tampa. Arrange launch to meet us at Tampa bar. Eggston is dead."

The first and last messages were signed by Lenteritz, who apparently is the pilot.

Later information received at the Pan-American office here was that the plane is safe, being supported by the coast guard cutter Sauker, bound for Key West and relayed to the local naval station.

GEORGIA COTTON IS SOLD FOR $5,000

marked the auction. The cotton finally was purchased for the export by T. W. Tift, president, at 42 cents a pound, or a total price of $180.60.

The bale weighed 450 pounds.

Arrangements were made at once with Doug Davis, aviator, to take the bale to New York city in a plane, and he assigned the task to one of his assistants, Pilot R. L. Stephens.

The cotton was rushed to a compress company where its size was reduced as much as possible by heavy pressure, although the weight remained the same. It was then taken to the field and shortly after 4 o'clock Stephens started on his way to New York with the intention of making the first stop at Spartanburg, S. C., where he intended to be met by a plane which would fly him to New York.

The information was intercepted by the coast guard cutter Sauker, bound for Key West and relayed to the local naval station.

The cotton was delivered early Friday to democratic national headquarters in New York, and was formally received by Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, and John J. Raskob, chairman of the national campaign committee.

GEORGIA'S FIRST BALE BRINGS RECORD PRICE.

New York, August 15.—(United News)—Mayor James W. Walker brought down the auctioneer's hammer with a bang tonight and the first bale of the south's cotton crop went to Barron G. Collier, advertising man, at a top bid of $5,000.

The bale of cotton was sent here by the Atlanta Commercial exchange to be auctioned and the money will go to the democratic national committee to aid Governor Smith's campaign.

Dapper Mayor Walker brought the bale of cotton on the block between acts of "Show and Tell" musical comedy at the Ziegfeld theater. There was plenty of competition before the wise-cracking city executive had knocked the bale down to Collier.

Eddie Cantor, comedian, was one of the keen participants in the bidding but he fell by the wayside at $2,000.

Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, cited the harmless looking bale as a "tribute of the loyal and undivided south to Governor Smith."

The gift was set on the stage while Senator Harrison addressed the audience briefly, shaking his time waiting for the always-late mayor to appear.

The bidding started at $500 and Collier jumped to $2,000 once.

Collier said he'd give $3,000 without batting an eye and then the competition started getting keen.

After Collier bought it for $5,000 he was escorted to the stage and said: "It is a privilege to pay this tribute to Governor Smith and to buy this product of the great state of Georgia."

DRYS BREAK EVEN IN OHIO PRIMARY

Columbus, Ohio, August 15.—(AP)—The Anti-Saloon league apparently has nominated its candidates for governor of Ohio on both the republican and democratic tickets on the face of 12 complete and unofficial returns from yesterday's state primary, but the G. O. P. race appeared so close tonight that an official count may be necessary to determine the result.

Returned from all but one precinct in the state indicated that Myers V. Cooper, Cincinnati business man, who carried the dry league endorsement, has again received the republican nomination for governor. These returns gave him a majority of 5,568 over Congressman James T. Hegg, of Sandusky, his closest rival. The vote was, Cooper 259,725; Hegg 254,157.

Cooper, Cincinnati business man, who carried the dry league endorsement, has again received the republican nomination for governor. These returns gave him a majority of 5,568 over Congressman James T. Hegg, of Sandusky, his closest rival. The vote was, Cooper 259,725; Hegg 254,157.

Returned from all but one precinct in the state indicated that Myers V. Cooper, Cincinnati business man, who carried the dry league endorsement, has again received the republican nomination for governor. These returns gave him a majority of 5,568 over Congressman James T. Hegg, of Sandusky, his closest rival. The vote was, Cooper 259,725; Hegg 254,157.

OFFICERS ARE NAMED BY TRI-CONVENTION

The state tri-convention of the Sunday school, the Allen Christian Endeavor league and the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary bodies of the African Methodist Episcopal church, held its first session Wednesday in Big Bethel A. M. E. church, Butler street, of which Dr. J. L. Butler is pastor.

The program began with the big state choir, Professor W. H. Lissimore, Valdosta, pianist, Dr. J. T. Wilkerson, chorister. The keynote sermon was delivered by Bishop W. A. Fountain, D. D., head of the A. M. E. church in Georgia and chancellor of the university system of the A. M. E. schools in Georgia.

The bishop spoke on the "Fundamental Agencies," employed to help the world of mankind stressing the

RIVERS' RECORD HIT BY HARDMAN

State Senator E. D. Rivers has not denied that he was the leader of the "senate bloc" which was organized in the upper branch of the general assembly at its last session and which opposed policies of Governor L. C. Hardman, according to a statement issued Wednesday by the Hardman campaign headquarters.

In the statement it also was denied that Governor Hardman has ever made a statement that Senator Rivers "is too young" to serve as governor.

The statement is as follows:

It is a significant fact that Mr. Rivers has never denied a statement that he was the ring leader in the organization of the "senate bloc" whose purpose was to defeat, in the last general assembly, the measures that the people of the state had voted for so overwhelmingly. And we venture the opinion that he will not deny that many members of that same bloc are now riding the state in an effort to secure the election, not only of Mr. Rivers, but of candidates to both houses of the general assembly who will blindly follow the command of the boss politicians.

An outstanding issue of the last campaign was the highway department and Governor Hardman upon every possible occasion repeated his promises not to reappoint Mr. Holder to the chairmanship of that body. Because, after his election he would not break that promise he incurred the enmity of Mr. Rivers and a number of his associates, and that was responsible for the organization of the "senate bloc" that so violently opposed every administration measure.

Mr. Rivers is making great capital of the fact that Governor Hardman has refused to agree to a joint debate. He is also issuing statement after statement criticizing Governor Hardman for not stamping the state. It evidently has never occurred to him that the governor of Georgia finds his time more than fully occupied with the duties of his office. And that, if he conscientiously discharges the obligations of his office, he has no time to spend in making a state-wide canvass. In his previous campaign Governor Hardman's time was his own and he was in position to devote 24 hours a day to his campaign. A man with less regard for the obligations of his office probably would make the same canvass this year.

Another favorite statement coming from the Rivers headquarters is that Governor Hardman has charged that Mr. Rivers is too young to be governor. No such statement has ever been made, but it was manufactured in the Rivers headquarters probably for the purpose of enabling Mr. Rivers to compare himself most favorably with many of the most illustrious names in history.

The above is about on a par with the statement that the Rivers organization is composed of men who are contributing their efforts as a labor of love. They probably are, but it is because of love of the money they will draw in soft political jobs, if the old machine is able to reelect itself in Georgia politics, and not because of any personal admiration they have for the present head of that machine.

MRS. WILLIAMS DENIES 'BOLTING' DEMOCRATS

Mrs. Marvin Williams, president of the Georgia W. C. T. U., delegate to the Houston democratic convention and republican elector in the November election, Wednesday wrote to The Constitution, an "anti-Smith democrat," denying that she and other democrats who are endorsing the Hoover ticket have left the democratic party.

Mrs. Williams' letter follows in full:

Editor Constitution: As anti-Smith democrats, battling to save our beloved party from the predatory claws of the Tammany tiger, we have been very much amused at the very evident distress of The Constitution over the personnel of the Hoover electors in Georgia. We know and The Constitution knows that the announcement of these electors is a blazing proclamation to all Georgia that the moral forces of the state, irrespective of party, are united behind Mr. Hoover. We suspect, yes, we rather more than suspect, that those in Georgia who are championing the cause of the "wet" error of New York would have had the anti-Smith democrats put out a half-dozen different tickets of electors and so split the vote into fragments. Mr. Editor, if you think that the crowd that is fighting God's cause in Georgia just now are kindergartens in intelligence, a rude awakening awaits you.

"And don't you really think that it is a poor little childish trick to keep coupling the names of anti-Smith democratic women with 'Ben Davis'? We will never stoop so low as to couple Mrs. Moskowitz, Governor Smith's Russian secretary, with Ferdinand Q. Morton, the Tammany negro civil service commissioner of New York city, who presides over more than 100 white employees, although it would be just as logical and just as silly. That sort of thing is cheap, shoddy, and far from the southern gallantry that ought to characterize southern editors. Ours is the praying side, Mr. Editor, and by God's help, we shall keep our campaign clean and on a high plane.

"Yes, 'the rat is out of the bag' and it has green eyes. What is bothering you, Mr. Editor, is that we are not leaving the democratic party. Don't you wish that the praying mothers and the preachers and the host who put principle above party would get out and stay out and let you have the grand old democratic party and run it proudly down the road to licensed wine and beer, rum and ruin? We will never do it. Quoting an Atlanta lawyer, one of our leaders, we are merely 'detouring around the Al Smith mud-hole.' But if you still insist that we have 'gone off,' we reply in the words of another one of our leaders: 'There are at least 150,000 of us in Georgia and you needn't bother about our having sense enough to find the way back home.'

"We are in this fight to win for southern democracy, prohibition, the protection of the home and American standards of government in our native land. The people of Georgia are rallying by thousands to our cause and every day brings us reinforcements. Faithfully yours,

"MRS. MARVIN WILLIAMS."

MAJOR I. N. RAGSDALE PURCHASES NEW HOME

Mayor I. N. Ragdale has completed negotiations for purchase of a new residence at Morningside Drive and Rock Springs road from Mrs. M. G. Kurfess, he announced Wednesday.

Mayor Ragdale and his family will occupy the new home, a two-story brick dwelling, within the next month or so. Mayor Ragdale has lived on Lee street in Oakland Park for many years.

SIRRENE NAMED DIRECTOR OF ATLANTA BANKS

J. E. Sirrene, of Greenville, S. C., has been elected a director of the Atlanta and Lowry National bank and the Trust Company of Georgia, it was announced Wednesday by Thomas K. Glenn, president of the two institutions, following a meeting of directors.

Mr. Sirrene succeeds the late James J. Goodrum.

Mr. Sirrene is head of the firm of J. E. Sirrene & Co., of Greenville, engineers specializing in building textile and other industrial plants, and is one of the country's foremost authorities on the cotton textile industry. He is also vice president of the Duneane Mills of Greenville, the Chiquila Mills of Honepath, S. C., and the Orr Cotton Mills of Anderson, S. C. He is a director of the Aragon Baldwin mills, with headquarters in Rock Hill, S. C.; the Piedmont

Mills, Industrial Cotton Mills company, F. W. Poe Manufacturing company, Union Bleachery and the Piedmont Plush company. His banking include membership on the board of directors of the First National bank of Greenville, S. C., and the First National and Merchants bank of Richmond, Va.

Mr. Sirrene was born in Cordale, Ga., 55 years ago, but his family moved to Greenville when he was a child. He is a graduate of Furman university and has been honored with several honorary degrees. He entered the engineering business in 1900, and his firm is now one of the most important in the country.

Eastman's first bale of 1928 cotton was brought in Tuesday. It was raised on the farm of A. L. Bond, and weighed 880 pounds. It was auctioned off on the streets of Eastman and was bought by W. R. Harrell, the price paid being 32 cents per pound. There has been considerable improvement in the crops in Dodge in the past few weeks, but the recent heavy rains and wind have done some damage to both cotton and corn.

Anti-Smith Meeting.
Judge W. A. Covington and former Congressman William D. Upshaw will address an anti-Smith rally at Adair park at 7:30 o'clock tonight. The rally will be held in the George Adair school building in the event of inclement weather.

Golf Is Best For Good Will Says Hagen

International Matches Have Never Brought About Any Arguments.

BY WALTER HAGEN, British Open Golf Champion, American Professional Champion. (Copyright, 1928, by North American Newspaper Alliance.)

Detroit, Mich., August 15.—It seems strange to golfers who have been very often in Great Britain and on the continent to read of the various rows which get under way when international athletic contests other than golf are being conducted over on the other side. For golfers from America have never had anything but the most enjoyable experiences abroad.

In the seven visits I have made to the old country to play in golf championships matches and British championships have been won practically every time by Americans—I never have seen any demonstration of bad feeling. Golf must be different from other sports and I believe that it is for the reason that in golf there is such an element of luck, one way or the other, that no player expects to win all the time and therefore becomes more accustomed to taking it "on the chin" and learning to accept defeat gracefully.

Now Or Never.

The trouble with Olympic games competition is that it only happens once in four years and when the boys of the various nations get together it is a case of "now or never." Many of the contestants are in a sport which wears them out quickly. They are very apt to find themselves at top form for only one Olympic meeting and the desire to win must be very keen. Therefore, arguments are apt to arise.

In golf we always know that even if we are beaten today, tomorrow or next week, there will be another opportunity and when it comes we may be playing better, or the breaks may be with us.

So in golf nearly all tournament players have learned to take victory and defeat as more a matter of course and for practically all golfers the real thrill of the game is not in winning but in hitting the ball well.

I never feel badly when I lose a golf match provided I have hit the ball in a manner to satisfy me. The only time I get annoyed is when I fail to hit the shots I've been thinking about and expecting to pull off.

No Arguments.

In all of the golf championships I have been in, and all the matches I have played, I cannot remember of having had a single serious argument with any competitor. I can remember the spectators at an international golf match getting into a row over the decisions of an umpire, or the result of a match. It is true that some forms of international sporting competition do not foster good will, as they are supposed to do, but I am confident that golf does do much for international good will and I think any of our amateurs or professionals who have played on the other side will agree to this.

Next spring the American professional golf team will go to Europe to play the French professionals in Paris, to play in the German open championship in Berlin, to play in the British open championship at Muirfield and to play in the regular Ryder cup match with the British professionals. As captain of the American professional team I can say that our players will do the best they can to win in all these engagements, but if we lose none of us will consider it a national calamity. No tears will be spilled and no squawks made, and there will be no rows with officials and no engagements between American spectators and those of the other countries.

Best for U. S. to Lose.

As a matter of fact it wouldn't be such a bad thing for golf if some of the other fellows did win, for it would create more interest in international golf competition which must lose some of its zest if it becomes a too one-sided proposition.

Another thing about golf is that some of the famous courses of the world are in the old country and our golfers enjoy playing on these courses. It is an experience well worth the trip and gives more lasting satisfaction than the winning of a championship or a match.

I notice the talk among American golfers who have been in Europe is not concerning how a championship was won or lost, or an international match won or lost, but about the relative merits of some of the world famous seaside links, such as St. Andrews, Troon, Prestwick, Muirfield and those on the Kent coast of England.

Hawthorne Track May Be Closed

Chicago, August 15.—(P)—The gates of Hawthorne race track may be closed tomorrow and the present meeting scheduled for 24 days may be terminated as a result of a strike declared today by horse men now racing their thoroughbreds at the course. The strike was declared because the Chicago Business Men's Racing Association refused to bar Johnson N. Camden, president of the American Turf association, and Edward Trotter, another thoroughbred owner, who declined to sign an agreement stipulating that Hawthorne should donate 1 per cent of each race to be applied to the general fund of the Thoroughbred Horse Owners' association.

The action did not affect today's racing but the owners declined to file entries for tomorrow. Unless the situation can be settled by tonight the Hawthorne plant may be idle tomorrow.

The gatekeeper almost got him into the movies once. They wanted him to play the scenery in "Back to the Bush."

The Haig Accepts

Detroit, August 15.—(P)—Upon his return here today from a fishing trip, Walter Hagen, British open golf champion, announced his acceptance of the challenge of Johnny Farrell, national open titleholder, for a series of matches for the "championship of the world."

Hagen said that he favored Farrell's proposal for a series of five 36-hole engagements, the first of which would likely be played here.

MEMPHIS-GREY SOX GAME IS CALLED OFF

Monday's game between the Memphis Red Sox, of the negro National league, and the Atlanta Gray Sox, has been called off, owing to the fact that the Red Sox have a series scheduled with Birmingham. Fort Benning, the team that opened the season here, will play the Gray Sox Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at Spiller field.

The Army nine needs no introduction to Atlanta fans. The Atlanta team holds a three-game margin over the Camp Benning nine, having won three straight games in the early part of the season.

This time it is expected that it will be a different story when the two teams clash, because of added strength in the infantry infield. S. M. Humphries, business manager for the Gray Sox, is in communication with the Greenville, S. C., nine, and it is hoped that he will be able to secure them for the last part of the week.

The Gray Sox aggregation has four south Georgia and Florida, since leaving the city, and won seven out of the nine games played on foreign soil, losing only to Dawson and Miami. The Sox defeated the latter team four out of five games by a one-run margin and one game went 11 innings to end in a 4-4 tie.

A record crowd is expected to be on hand to welcome the team back home. The game will be called at 3:30 o'clock. A special section of the grand stand will be reserved for white fans.

GOOD BRAND OF GOLF SHOT AT CHICAGO

Indian Hill Club, Chicago, August 15.—(P)—Honor even in defeat was the mead in most of the hotly contested second round matches today in the women's western golf championship. For, with three exceptions, the losers shot golf worthy of victory only to lose to unbeatable golf by a more fortunate opponent.

The day brought forth two record 27s on the second nine, the runner-up and of the California champion in an extra hole match. But it sent into the third round the defending champion, Mrs. Harry Pressler, of Los Angeles; Dorothy Page, of Madison, Wis.; and Gertrude Boothby, of St. Paul, Minn.

It fell to Miss Boothby, Minnesota champion, to furnish the biggest surprise of the day, the elimination of Virginia Van Wie, Chicago champion, winner of several southern events and one-time conqueror of Glenna Collett. To accomplish this feat, the winner had to shoot one under par on the first nine and to score a birdie on the final hole to win one up.

Record 37s. The record 37s were tallied by Miss Page in her 2-up victory over Mrs. Curtis Sohl, who had gained a lead of 3-up by shooting the first nine in two under par, and by Virginia Wilson, of Chicago, semi-finalist in last year's British championship, who made the best 18-hole score of the day, a 78, in her 1-up defeat of Mrs. Dorothy Klotz Pardee, of Hibbing, Minn.

The downfall of last year's runner-up, Bernice Hall, of Oshkosh, was brought about by Mrs. Lee Mink of Chicago, who came home in 39 and won by halving the final hole in one under par. The defeat of Mrs. Gregg Lufat, California titleholder, came only after a great tussle as she yielded to her fellow player from Los Angeles, Kathleen Wright, only at the nineteenth hole.

In addition to Miss Wright, California kept a fourth of the remaining places through the victory of Mrs. Pressler, 4 and 2, over Anne Webster, of Fort Leavenworth. The champion played within a stroke of par, except for a stylin on the short thirteenth, as she had done on every round after qualifying with 80, one under par. This victory brings the defender face to face with Mrs. Mink in the quarter-finals, while Miss Wright will play Miss Page, who had the most hectic time of her career to win.

TRICHOGRAMMA AID PEACH GROWERS IN WAR ON MOTH

Trichogramma, parasites brought to Georgia by airplane from California to aid the north Georgia peach grower in his battle against crop-destroying pests is proving highly effective in devouring the deadly Oriental peach moth, the state department of entomology made known Wednesday.

Of 40,000 trichogramma brought here by air last May, 95 per cent survived the trip, E. Lee Wortham, state entomologist said. They were liberated in north Georgia orchards to battle the Oriental moth, declared to be the most serious pest confronting growers in that section. The parasites, the entomologist said, his examinations had revealed, have been very effective in destroying the eggs of the Oriental moth, and it is the plan of the department to propagate the imported insects in large quantities next season, arrangements now being under way to maintain the trichogramma through the winter by means of laboratory propagation.

Fairform Flyer Forced to Port

Jacksonville, Fla., August 15.—(P)—The Fairform Flyer, speedy cabin cruiser, which attempted to establish a new boat record between Jacksonville and New York, encountered engine trouble north of Morehead City, N. C., yesterday and put into Norfolk last night for repairs, said a telegram received here today by Mrs. Sidney Simmons, wife of one of the men aboard the vessel.

The telegram stated that 18 valve springs in the engines had been damaged, but that repairs had been made and that the boat probably would reach New York tomorrow morning. The boat, built and piloted by Frank P. Hunsine, of Jacksonville, was attempting to break the record of 116 hours between Florida and New York, established several years ago by Gar Wood, nationally known sportsman. It left Fernandina last Sunday night.

Roberti Beats Risko in Bout

him about like a sack of potatoes. Risko cuffed at a patch over the Italian's left eye.

The margin increased in John's favor as the battle eased through the fourth and fifth sessions and the fighting became more vicious. Roberti fought carefully laying back behind a long left, waiting to end the fray with one zooming right hand punch to the chin, he was very cautious, and Risko, with his leaping, plunging attack, kept the giant pedalling.

Despite the blow that laid him low, Roberti proved to the turnout of the faithful that he is a vastly improved battler, capable of stepping into the elimination tournaments here and there with no danger of disgracing the Italian nation.

May Be Rematched.

An effort will be made, Fugazy announced after the bout, to rematch the pair as soon as possible.

Tom Heeney, unsuccessful challenger for the heavyweight crown Gene Tunney now has forsaken, made his final bow for the time being to the American fight public. He showed no marks of his losing fight less than two weeks ago and received a tremendous cheer. He will leave tomorrow for a few months stay in New Zealand.

The official figures showed that the match drew one of the largest gates of the season, $42,038. More than 20,000 paid admission.

Elaborate Dance To Be Given At Fort McPherson Thursday

Fort McPherson, August 15.—The reserve officers' hop committee consisting of Major W. M. Caffee, Captain Gorman R. Jones, Lieutenant William Baker, Lieutenant S. C. Rice, Lieutenant B. McDonald, Lieutenant B. C. Isbell and Lieutenant E. D. Ball have made elaborate plans for the hop to be given Thursday evening at the Army Service club by the officers of the 345th and 346th regiments of infantry and the 373rd engineers and the attached officers in honor of the ladies and officers of the regular army both in the garrison and in Atlanta. Colonel T. S. Moorhead, the executive officer of the 173rd brigade, and the staff officers of the regiments and their wives will receive the guests. Dancing will be enjoyed from 9 until 1 o'clock.

Other Army News.

Company F of the Twenty-second infantry entertained with a beautiful dinner in the mess hall Monday evening in honor of their company commander, Captain Stanley Blanton, who leaves the regiment this week for change of station. Captain Blanton has endeared himself to the officers and men alike of the Twenty-second infantry and sincere regret is felt at his departure.

Captain Samuel C. Harrison leaves Monday, August 20, for Camp Perry, Ohio, where he will be on duty at the national matches.

Captain and Mrs. Robert Joerg, Jr., have as their guest Mrs. Joerg's brother, Jack Spencer, of Alabama, who will spend several weeks in the garrison. Major and Mrs. Augustus B. Jones had Barry Flanagan as their guest for the past week-end.

'The Rawhide Kid' Features Saturday Palace Matinee

The Saturday morning matinee at the Palace theater will feature an interesting and well-rounded program this week at 10 o'clock, with Highland school acting as hostess. Mrs. William Wyant, better films chairman from Highland, will be assisted by Mrs. B. E. Fuchs and her committee of Highland mothers as chaperons. Miss Gertrude Corrigan, beloved principal of Highland, and Mrs. Everett Bishop, P.T. A. president, will be honor guests.

The children's favorite, Hoot Gibson, will be seen in the western film, "The Rawhide Kid." Scenes showing the horse and his master are appealing. The fascinating baby, "Snookums," will be seen in a comedy, entitled "Snookums Disappears," while an intensely interesting educational film is called "Singing and Stinging."

The prolog features are in charge of Mrs. T. Ray Wiggins, prolog chairman, assisted by Mrs. Wyant. Mrs. D. W. Darden is in charge of exploitation; Mrs. N. E. Russell, automobiles; Mrs. E. W. Burruss, chaparral. Highland children are out this week to win the attendance prize of a big doll, offered by Mrs. Newton C. Wing, better films president, for the largest Saturday's attendance this summer. The doll then to be awarded to that school for a prize. The admission is 10 cents for all children of school age and under, and 25 cents for adults. Many mothers bring their children, do their Saturday morning shopping and get their children again at 11:30 o'clock, time of dismissal.

At Allen's . . .

An Early Presentation!

NEW FALL FROCKS

$18

The tailored stripe developed in silk and in wool is popular for office or class-room.

Crepes—black, navy, wood green, the new tans and Davy Jones blue being the leading colors—are tailored more strictly than ever for street—being often unrelieved by any touch of white or contrasting shade.

The satins are varied. Some are bloused and draped, some are flared and flounced, some are simply cut and slim and straight. Most of them are black, but Davy Jones blue is as good in satin as crepe, and the browns are richer and in more delicately varying shades than ever.

Satin and georgette are combined to advantage in many new models.

AUTUMN makes her formal debut at Allen's with the presentation of these new Frocks. By virtue of their autumnal shades, their depth of tone, their woody richness of quality they are Autumn's own. By virtue of their cut and chic they are Allen's. And by virtue of Allen's feature price they are yours at genuine economy.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

A SWOOP AND A JUMP.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

My gain, your loss; your loss, my gain; My pain, your joy; your joy, my pain. —Old Mother Nature.

"Blow, Merry Breezes, blow!" cried Chatterer. "Blow with all your might!"

The Merry Little Breezes did blow. They blew with all their might. They blew so hard that Chatterer had to dig his claws into the log on which he was riding in order to hold on.

Chatterer's tail was his sail. High in the sky back of Chatterer a speck was growing larger and larger. That speck was a person. That person was Redtail the Hawk. Chatterer knew who it was. That was why he kept begging the Merry Little Breezes to blow hard. He knew how wonderful are the eyes of Redtail the Hawk. He didn't doubt that, as far away as Redtail was, he had already seen that little log with its lone passenger. So Chatterer's heart seemed to him to be right up in his throat. It seemed to be clung him to the log, that is the way it seemed to Chatterer. First he would look over at the shore; then he would look up at that growing speck. It seemed to him that Redtail was drawing nearer a great deal faster than the shore was. Once he was over the shore, he would swoop down and pick Chatterer up. But by this time the Merry Little Breezes were sending that old log faster than Chatterer could see. He was so sure that Redtail was coming that he was and kept his tail spread for a sail.

Nearer drew the shore and nearer drew Redtail the Hawk. He was more than a speck now. He was very much more than a speck. Poor Chatterer! It seemed to him that little log didn't move at all. Actually, it was moving quite fast. Time and again Chatterer saw the shore, and the length of the log, jump into the water and swim. But very wisely he did not do this. He kept his place high in the air, and the Merry Little Breezes blew and blew and blew. And the little log sailed and sailed and sailed. And Redtail flew and flew.

Paddy the Beaver poked his head out of water just a little way from Chatterer. Paddy didn't see Redtail the Hawk. He thought Chatterer was sailing just for fun. The spirit of mischief prompted Paddy to swim quite close and suddenly slap the water hard with that big, fat tail of his.

"D-d-d-o it again," chattered Chatterer. Chatterer saw that Paddy had helped him. That wave had pushed the log a little faster toward the shore.

"D-d-d-o it again," chattered Chatterer, and took a hasty look over his shoulder at Redtail.

Paddy looked up to see what Chatterer was looking at. Then Paddy understood what was happening. He got behind Chatterer and began swimming with his nose against that old log. He was pushing that log now it was moving quite fast. Chatterer understood and he was very grateful.

The shore was drawing nearer faster. Redtail the Hawk was drawing nearer faster. He was almost near enough to swoop down and pick Chatterer up. Perhaps you can guess that Chatterer was very much frightened. But Redtail Chatterer was that Redtail cannot fly as fast as one or two other members of the hawk family can. But Redtail was doing his best. Chatterer took one more hurried look over his shoulder. Ten he lowered his tail and the length of that little log ran the length of that little log. Chatterer saw the shore, and the length of the log, jump into the water and swim. And just as he leaped Redtail swooped for him. (Copyright, 1923, for The Constitution.)

The next story: "Chatterer Has a Lively Time."

the subjects of laughter as a cause of their condition. For them, we'll change the adage to Laugh and Grow Fat!

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M. D.

LAUGH AND GROW FIT.

You perhaps have heard the story of the mother who, in response to a request by her son's teacher to clean him up, he smelled so bad, wrote: "I send my boy to school to be learnt, not to be smelt!"

Here's another version of the story which perhaps you haven't heard: The principal of the school wrote that the teachers complained that the boy was unclean and smelled bad, and his mother wrote back: "My Rudy don't need no bath and he don't need no clean underwear. The trouble with them old maid teachers there is they don't know what a young man ought to smell like."

Did that give you a laugh? Good. It got into corners and unexplored crannies of your system and gave them an automatic massage.

"Laughter," said Dr. Hudebrand, "is an external expression of joy. It is the most salutary of all bodily movements, for it agitates both body and soul at the same time, promotes digestion, circulation and perspiration and enhances the vital power of every organ."

"Laugh every day. If you can't do it naturally, do it as a matter of duty or conscience. If you can't laugh, smile. Learn to smile so that you may learn to laugh. Let us have more robust, full-blooded, whole-souled, clean laughter of a kind that a man can share with his family as he would a pie or any other good eating, laughter that leaves no black smudge in memory, no bad taste in the mouth, and that lapses into a long trail of remembrance, chuckles like the faint dying-away of an echo."

Laughter as an aid to health has been the subject of scientific importance for Dr. James J. Walsh, eminent as a medical historian, to write a book on the subject, "Laughter and Health." Dr. Walsh brings out that the favorable effect of laughter is not really due to the cheerful state of mind, but to mechanical movements of the internal organs. It stimulates the sluggish liver and intestines and increases respiration so that the lungs get more oxygen and therefore all of the organs are benefited.

Inasmuch as laughter is such a good physical and mental exercise, it is a help to the norm; and for those who need to gain, there is some truth in the adage, Laugh and Grow Fat.

For the same reason, those who are overweight must stop hiding behind their laughter.

LADIES HOUSE DRESS (FOR MATURE FIGURES WITH SLENDER HIPS.)

6188.—This is an excellent model for gingham, dimity, printed linen or percale. It will also be pleasing in cotton or wool crepe, or in tub silk or voile. The shaped front is especially adapted to larger figures and the plaited hem adds fullness without expressing added width. The open neck is smart and comfortable. As here pictured the dress was made of printed voile with facings of plain

SUMMER SCHOOL ENDS; ENROLLMENT AT TOTAL OF 1,994

Atlanta's summer school classes closed their sessions Wednesday with an enrollment in all branches of 1,994, approximately 25 per cent greater than last year's enrollment. School department officials described the session as the most successful summer school term in the history of Atlanta. The students' report cards were delivered Wednesday at the close of the session, the cards certifying the credits earned during the term.

Charge of Raising Banknote Dropped; Two Men Freed

Charges of passing a one dollar silver certificate, raised to $10 denomination, made against William Howard Hancock and D. F. Vandiver, Jr., on accusation by Tommie Pitts, negro, were dropped Wednesday when United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith dismissed both defendants for lack of sufficient evidence to hold them for the grand jury.

Pitts claimed that the pair asked him to change a $10 bill, that he changed the banknote and later found that it had been raised from a $1 bill. Hancock and Vandiver both denied the charges and said they had not seen Pitts before until he accused them of passing a raised note on him. Judge Griffith signed an order turning which are being retired gradually.

More than $1,000,000 worth of business was transacted in the Atlanta Municipal Market during 1922. It has been announced by J. Frank Beck, president of the market. The market covers an entire city block on Edgewood avenue at Butler street, and is composed of 147 farmers' stalls, where all forms of produce may be obtained.

Mr. Beck stated that the market was the only essentially farmers' market in the country to be accommodated in a modern building. It provides facilities of a market place for farmers within a radius of 50 miles of Atlanta to reach the consumer directly. The market represents an investment of $200,000 secured by loans which are being retired gradually.

Saturday brings to a close the current Keith's Georgia show which is featuring the unit show "Gossips of 1928" and the Paramount picture "Forgotten Faces", starring Clive Brook, William Powell and Eleanor Boardman. The picture departs widely from the usual plot angles and presents a most unusual slice of life.

Loew's Grand.
 Three headline vaudeville acts and one of the funniest and most entertaining pictures of the season are featured at Loew's Grand theater this week. The vaudeville entertainers are Charles O'Connell and Virginia Lee in a delightful comedy song sketch; Duci Di Kerekjarto, noted Hungarian violin virtuoso, in a classical and popular program and the Lenora dancers, a gorgeous dancing revue. There are two other good acts. The feature picture is "Beau Broadway", with Lew Cody.

Howard.
 "Loves of an Actress," a powerful heart drama told with music, is the unusual film offering at the Howard theater this week. It is Paramount's first sound picture and stars many brilliant stars, among whom are Pola Negri, Nils Asther, Philip Strange. The picture is not only a great achievement in dramatic acting but is said to be one of the most perfect synchronized productions released to date by Paramount. "Fast Mail" is the Public Roadshow. The acts in this show are said to surpass anything seen at the Howard during the past season. Al Morey, whom Atlanta audiences have been receiving so well, offers one of the most unusual arrangements in music heard at that theater lately.

Metropolitan.
 "O'Neill and Vernon," billed as "the two black knights," are the headliners on this week's Vitaphone program in a blackface act.

Rialto.
 One of the highest-priced haircuts on record is ascribed to George Meeker, who is to play Andreas in "Four Sons," a Fox masterpiece coming to the Rialto next week. In the name of realism and his art, Meeker consented to have his head clipped for a Bavarian scene. The artist was substantially rewarded by studio executives.

Alamo No. 2.
 Olive Boardman, the screen's most youthful star, has the title role in "The Joy Girl," an Allan Dwan picture for Fox, which appears at the Alamo theater No. 2 today. A scintillating picture, this, of Palm Beach gayer and New York at its brightest, with wealth and sophistication on all sides. Miss Boardman has one of the most effective roles of her career.

Empire.
 An amusement pier, a country club, a Broadway cabaret and then the prizefight of the year are a few of the highlights seen in Clara Bow's rise of fun, "Rough House Rosie," today's screen feature at the Empire theater, while this evening at 8 o'clock the stage will be turned over to Bob Robinson and his "Hotzy Totsy Revue."

Tudor.
 Transferring to the screen the spirit of romance and adventure that pervades the far west even in the modern day, Buzz Barton, the 13-year-old western star, has just completed another of his pictures, "The Little Buckaroo," which shows at the Tudor theater today. Less than a year ago Buzz Barton introduced an entirely new idea in pictures, that of a western star yet in his first "teens."

Cameo.
 Reproducing a great diamond mine with its huge pits, giant derricks and the small army of laboring negro miners was a task accomplished through the oil industry. When the set was built for "Diamond Handcuffs," the feature film at the Cameo theater today, the contract for creating this atmosphere was given to the oil well supply houses. The workings of a South African diamond mine are vividly shown in "Diamond Handcuffs," Eleanor Boardman and Conrad Nagel star.

NEGRO NEWSPAPER FACES LIBEL SUIT FILED BY PASTOR

Key West, Fla., August 15.—(AP)—C. Tucker, local negro pastor, today filed suit against the Chicago Defender, negro paper, for $25,000 damages, alleging libel.

The paper carried a story, Tucker alleges, saying he stole an automobile in Alabama. The car was his own property, he asserts.

MONROE DOCTRINE RULING IS SOUGHT

Geneva, August 15.—(AP)—Declaring that the covenant of the League of Nations had made the Monroe doctrine a constituent part of American public law, Costa Rica has asked the league for an interpretation of the doctrine to resolve the present differences of opinion.

The Central American republic, replying to an appeal that it rescind the league from which it resigned in 1924, said that before it decided to cooperate again it felt obliged to raise a fundamental question "which recently formed the subject of impassioned debates throughout the American continent and which on a certain occasion led Salvador to take a decisive step."

Covenant Cited.
 The communication says that the league covenant, signed at Versailles at a time when the world was filled with the highest hopes, gave concrete form to the noblest principles of international law which had been forgotten during the terrible years when the last great slaughter "threw the world into a state of confusion and destroyed the very foundations of civilization."

Under Article 21, which said that the covenant did not affect such regional understandings for the maintenance of peace as the Monroe doctrine, the note declares that the international scope of the league was extended by converting it "for all nations signatory to the treaty of Versailles into a constituent part of American public law."

Involve No Risk.
 Costa Rica holds that this extension of the doctrine, which it previously considered a unilateral declaration of the United States, would involve no risk to the independence of small nations. On the contrary, it could be regarded as an effective weapon for their defense if, when ever their political horizons were secured by the slightest shadow of a threat and there was occasion to apply the Monroe doctrine, an appeal could be made to the league for an authorized declaration as to the scope and correct interpretation of the doctrine.

Costa Rica recognizes the undeniable benefits which have resulted from the doctrine but emphasizes that a generally accepted interpretation of the doctrine in place of the present differences of opinion, which have even generally accepted interpretation of the doctrine in place of the present differences of opinion, which have even Decisive Step.

 The "decisive step" of Salvador to which Costa Rica refers was a request made to the United States at the Versailles conference for a declaratory statement. The United States at that time replied that its position was to be decided in the special meeting of the league to be held in Washington in 1925.

The league later issued the text of this Wilson speech in which he said that while the American hand was held up in warning to European governments not to attempt to extend their political systems to America, there was no promise in the doctrine of self-determination was going to do. He therefore urged that the states of America unite in a mutual guarantee of their political independence and territorial integrity and to settle all disputes by arbitration.

League Is Careful.
 It is understood that the council of the league has declined the responsibility of interpreting the doctrine which has been a dominant part of the foreign policy of the United States since 1823. However, the council has informed Costa Rica that in accordance with its request the communication will be forwarded to all members of the league.

As a result of this distribution it is believed that a debate on the Monroe doctrine is likely in the September assembly. It may be that the doctrine will be discussed in connection with the Kellogg pact for renunciation of war which Great Britain recently brought to the attention of the league.

FLORIDIAN SAVES FIVE CHILDREN FROM DROWNING

Winter Haven, Fla., August 15.—(AP)—Five young children, none over eight years old, today owed their lives to Mike Engelsen, a citrus grower, who saved them from drowning in Lake Howard when they were cast adrift in a leaky boat.

The children were playing in an old boat along the shore of the lake when a strong wind carried it into the middle of the lake.

Jumping into another boat, Engelsen went to their rescue, and, against a stiff breeze that carried the old boat, containing the children, for nearly a mile before it was overhauled.

The leaky boat sank a minute after he had transferred the children to his own craft.

The incident occurred during the final visitation of the tropical storm which had swept the city at intervals for the past eight days.

Textile Official And Eleven Others Fined for Picketing

New Bedford, Mass., August 15.—(AP)—William E. G. Batty, secretary of the textile council, and eleven other officials of his organization, arrested yesterday afternoon on charges of loitering, while they were picketing the Whitman mill, were found guilty and ordered to pay $10 each upon arraignment in court today. They appealed after entering pleas of not guilty and were released on $100 bond each.

The arrest of Mr. Batty was his first since the strike began, although he has been in picket lines a number of times. The case of the council leader and his co-defendants represents the conservative labor element of the city, is to be fought as a test case as to the rights of pickets, Jacob M. Smith, textile council attorney, announced.

Loitering as charged is a violation of the city ordinance.

Two women were arrested this morning charged with threatening a woman laundry worker whom they mistook for a strikebreaker. The cases were continued. A man charged with intimidating a woman mail operative was fined $25.

TORAL'S FATHER ASKS MENTAL TEST FOR SON

Mexico City, August 15.—(AP)—Aureliano de Leon, father of Jose de Leon Toral, assassin of General Alvaro Obregon, has filed a petition with the San Angel court asking that his son be examined by experts in accordance with the psychoanalytic theories of Dr. Sigmund Freud. He hopes thereby to establish irresponsibility and save the youth from execution by firing squad.

4 GEORGIANS NAMED OFFICERS IN O. R. C.

Twenty-three applicants from the fourth corps area have been appointed officers in the organized reserve corps, according to word received from the war department by fourth corps headquarters at Fort McPherson, included in the list were the following: four Georgians: Frank W. Armstrong, second lieutenant, infantry, Savannah; Millard M. DuBoise, second lieutenant, infantry, Atlanta; Otis C. Jones, second lieutenant, infantry, Edison; and Frank M. Young, second lieutenant, infantry, LaFayette.

5,000,000 Quail Killed by Georgia Hunters in 1927

Stating that more than 5,000,000 bobwhite quail were killed in Georgia during the last hunting season and that the value of these birds was conservatively placed at $2,000,000, State Game Commissioner Peter S. Twitty revealed a number of surprising facts about the value of Georgia's "wild life" in his address before the Atlanta Rotary club.

Mr. Twitty discussed the economic side of the state's game and fish resources, and stressed the one point throughout his talk that the food value of this wild life is worth more in actual dollars and cents than any food crop produced in the state. The estimate placed on the value of the state's game and fish was $20,000,000, which was declared by authorities to be ultraconservative.

The value of Georgia's dairy products is only $15,000,000, and although less than that of the "wild life" is greater than any other food crop. Mr. Twitty pointed out that the food value of this wild life is worth more in actual dollars and cents than any food crop produced in the state.

It is a gift of a bountiful nature and citizens of the state should be willing to conserve and preserve the life that is so valuable to the state.

In his talk Mr. Twitty did not compare the value of fish and game with that of the state's other resources. Although he made a comparison with many other crops of the state, he did not mention cotton.

TOPEKA'S READY FOR CURTIS FETE

Topeka, Kans., August 15.—(AP)—While Senator Charles Curtis spent another busy day at his office, his home town today was getting into its holiday best for the formal notification ceremony Saturday for the republican vice presidential nominee.

The city's principal thoroughfare, Kansas avenue, has been trimmed with flags, bunting and national and party emblems and most of the buildings in the business district have been decorated.

Workmen were completing the construction of a temporary wooden platform on the south steps of the state capitol on which Senator Curtis will be formally notified and sworn in by Governor D. Fess of Ohio, of his nomination as Herbert Hoover's running mate.

Along Ninth avenue, the one block leading from Kansas avenue to the capitol grounds, six triumphal arches will be erected.

Plans for the notification day call for a one-hour program on the state capitol grounds preceding the formal ceremony, with eight bands furnishing the music.

The one-hour radio broadcast of Senator Fess' speech of notification and Senator Curtis' speech of acceptance will be available for thousands of others.

BIG NARCOTIC RING BROKEN BY ARRESTS

Baltimore, Md., August 15.—(AP)—Federal narcotic officials say that a big ring of drug peddlers, headed by Mrs. Cora Stanbush, following the arrest of her husband and three other men in New York last night, dope rings in New York, Baltimore and Atlanta, Ga., have been broken.

Mrs. Stanbush was arrested at her home here by a federal official, who was working under the Atlanta office, and in her apartment they say they found a quantity of morphine. The woman is said to be a well-known social figure in the city.

Mrs. Stanbush told police that she was a full-blooded Oklahoma Indian. Federal Narcotic Inspector Thomas L. Guernsey, of Jacksonville, who works under the Atlanta office, was active in the capture of Mrs. Stanbush and her accomplices, according to the federal official.

Mrs. Guernsey had been especially assigned to the case.

COL. HOUSE HOPES FOR SMITH VICT

The Taming of Elizabeth

By WINIFRED BOGGS

SYNOPSIS

The young Elizabeth is the adopted daughter of Tim and Elizabeth Darcy. When she is four years old she runs away from home to avoid punishment for getting into mischief. She is brought home promptly by a neighbor, Miss Smiley.

At 12, Elizabeth runs away again, this time from school and to the city of London. She is met by her aunt, Dolly, who is almost as flighty as the young Elizabeth. Elizabeth, sympathizing with her aunt, much to the irritation of her stepmother, Stephen Whitby.

After the death of her parents Elizabeth goes to live with her aunt. During the war they keep themselves busy and also amused by performing in amateur theatricals for the benefit of wounded soldiers. Stephen, however, is not so busy. By his stepmother to bring Mark Lennox, a young playwright, to one of their performances.

Shortly after the end of the war Mrs. Whitby dies suddenly in Brighton, and Elizabeth learns to her consternation that her aunt had frittered away the money left her by her husband, and had also disposed of some of Stephen's inheritance as well. Afraid to face Stephen after this revelation, Elizabeth decides to go to Mark Lennox in London and ask him to get her a job.

Elizabeth, however, is not so simple. She goes to the office of the young playwright, and, although his business has failed, he offers to help her. He refuses his help and advice, and takes a part in Mark's new play. On the opening night she goes with him, and runs off, leaving an understudy to take over her part. Elizabeth, who happens to be in London visiting her cousin, Mrs. White, sees Elizabeth on the street and offers her a job as cook and Elizabeth accepts. But she is not so simple. She later offers her a job as companion to an old lady in the country, Julian Vestington, the old lady's grandfather, makes all the arrangements with Elizabeth.

Stephen arrives, however, William Whitby, to take over the management of the latter's business.

Elizabeth grows fond of Mrs. Vestington, who shows attention upon her young companion, but the latter is not so simple. She is a person of a mysterious and a mystery about the house.

INSTALLMENT XL.

Julian continued his story of Elizabeth's sorrow.

"Bulet's visits were almost constant now, he was always there watching Elizabeth, trying to cover up her bursts of excitability, soothing her, patting her hand, calling her 'my dear child,' till one day, one day, he screamed aloud and bit his hand, and the mother fainted. Could it be that Elizabeth was... Not even in her own mind would she frame a word of dread. Once the poor little thing got in a panic and ran away. Of course she was found and brought back, kicking, struggling, fighting her kind rescuer, Dr. Bulet. And then the mother cowering at the man's feet wrung her hands and implored him to help them. Couldn't he see? Elizabeth was no longer the sweet girl she had known, but some wild fierce thing, resisting all that was for her good, saying terrible things, making the strangest accusations, her unreasonable fear and hatred towards her would-be rescuer coloring all her thoughts, her words, her actions. 'O doctor, say it can't be! God's mercy let it be anything but that!'

"This time he did not put her off. Yes, it was serious; he had got to own it.

"But not... not too serious? she faltered.

"No, no, not that. If only she had been married to some sensible middle aged husband; someone who would understand. A happy wife and mother—the shadow would pass.

"Her social ambitions crashed to the ground; they were less than nothing now. She would gladly sacrifice everything in the world for this beloved afflicted child. If only she could be saved!

"I know nobody," she wailed, looking at him imploringly. Would he understand? He was such a good friend, so kind, so clever, and really fond of Elizabeth, she could see that, and he often said so. She faltered forth a hint, a request.

"He seemed to consider it, to make up his mind to save even at such a sacrifice. 'He seemed to me like Christ,' she said, in the witness box. He stayed to dinner that night, paid open court to Elizabeth—and the girl ordered him out of the house. Stormed and wanted to know how he dared. She was high spirited, you know—just like your Elizabeth, Whitby. Too him she detected him, worked herself up into a terrible state, compounded of rage and fear; called him a devil. 'They always turn against their best friend,' said he, sadly, to the mother. 'It is one of the worst symptoms.'

"But what are we to do, then?" she wailed. She had somehow taken it for granted that Elizabeth would yield. 'We must have patience,' he said.

"But confound it all," began Stephen.

"I know what you're going to say. You forget there were no neighbors, and the cordon was being drawn pretty close. If the mother had been with the girl no harm might have come to her, but she was against her, and she had all the money and the power till the girl came of age or married. And what she did she did for the sake of the one being she truly loved—that was her tragedy. He hinted Elizabeth ought to be under supervision, though unconscious of it, and Blossom became 'housemaid.' It was the beginning of the end; the victim got worse and worse, stranger and stranger. She would dance and sing one hour, scream the next; her eyes and action and words grew very wild... and the mere sight of the doctor brought frenzy and the wildest accusations. He was persecuting her, hypnotizing her, trying to get her in his power, but never, never would she have anything to do with him and his devil tricks. If only she had met cunning with cunning, but she had no cunning, only spirit and youth and hope. She would write to Jim, telling him how they were keeping them apart, begging him to come, but he took no notice. Of course he never got the letter. Then she grew a little frightened, I think. Anyway she implored her mother to give up the room and take her right away, and, acting under the doctor's instructions, the mother consented. Yes, they would go at once, this very afternoon.

"He had explained so kindly to the mother. It was only a slight case, he had cured dozens such, but poor dears, they always fought against what was best for them at first, though in the end they grew reconciled... yes, in the end they grew reconciled. 'You will take her into the home, give her your own special care?' pleaded the unhappy fool. Being her back to me, my own darling Elizabeth? He promised, for the friendship's sake, he would even do this, and because he was really so fond of the girl, wanted her happiness and welfare more than anything else in the world, yes, he had come to love her as a man loves but once. 'O, thank God for that!' she cried.

"So that the idea of going away and driving at once to the station fitted in very nicely. Elizabeth took a cup of tea from Blossom, willingly enough for once, it would be the last time she should see the girl. She got into the carriage and soon she felt drovy, half asleep. She awoke half an hour sooner than was intended, to find herself being helped up the asylum steps. She fought like a fiend, mad enough to do all seeming, as the groom who drove them regretfully acknowledged, but overpowered and borne in to her fate. The mother left the place broken and fainting, telling herself that in a very short time all this was going to seem but an evil dream to both of them.

"But the evil dream persisted, passed into a nightmare, for Bulet, still finding his hideous treatment, physical now as well as mental, could not secure to him the happiness as he had secured to himself the woman, went to the mother with a grave face, dropping vague and rather awful hints. Undoubtedly Elizabeth was—only temporarily—out of her mind, undoubtedly her madness was taking rather a distressing form. It was fortunate he had been able to have her under observation and treatment just in time. The frantic mother demanded to know the worst. 'Was Elizabeth dangerous?' 'Only to herself, my dear lady. You mean... suicide?' 'Well, of course, there is always that fear and she had threatened it.' Which was true enough. She would have escaped by way of death from things she had found worse than death had that been possible, but she had been too closely guarded. Blossom was, of course, back with her master, and between the pair of them.

"Mrs. Sorrow bowed her head in prayer; she prayed first for recovery; and if that was not possible, for death; almost more than all for secrecy, that none should ever know this shocking disgrace that had visited them. One of her prayers was answered; you can guess which. At the end of six months Dr. Bulet came with the latest infamy. Elizabeth, so he told the poor lady, had escaped from her room one night... and visited the hut of the young gardener. He had kept it from her for her own sake, now he could no longer keep it; there was going to be a child. He had of course, dismissed the man, which was true enough, but he had dismissed him for a real offense, not a make-up one, in a word for his 'humanity.' The young gardener had been more than he cared about, and refused to be bribed, and threatened to tell what he knew unless the doctor altered his methods. It was he who later 'blew the gaff' in company with one of the indoor servants recruited from the neighborhood who, half with morbid curiosity, half in pity, began to act the part of spy. She was 'walking out' with the young man, now engaged in Mundy Hollow street, and had promised to keep him informed. For when we are sure and know enough I'm going to the police,' he said. 'Only we've got to know enough first. It ain't so easy to down them with money same as that devil.'

STONE MOUNTAIN LINE CHANGE IS AUTHORIZED

The Georgia Power company was granted authority by the public service commission to run its Stone Mountain cars only as far as Decatur on the way to Atlanta, it was announced Wednesday by the public service commission. The company also was given permission to rearrange its schedule so that more cars could be run at night than during the day. Four cars will be in the day time when business is light.

Passengers on the Stone Mountain line will be given permission to transfer at Decatur to the South Decatur or the North Decatur line and proceed to Atlanta without additional charge. The company also was given permission to discontinue the sale of commutation ticket books. A passenger station in which passengers may wait for connecting cars already existing at Decatur, it was announced, will be built.

The order is effective August 20.

The Georgia Power company was granted authority to issue 100,000 shares of $5 preferred stock. It will exchange 88,000 shares of this $5 stock for 80,000 shares of $6 stock. This petition was granted as a refinancing measure.

The Central of Georgia railroad was granted authority to remove two of its trains operated between Atlanta and Jonesboro under a compromise agreement between the railroad and citizens who live along the line.

The commission ordered a reduction of 50 per cent in the rates on business and residence telephone service rendered by the Oglethorpe Telephone company, of Lexington. This order was issued because of complaints of interior service on the line. The company was ordered to appear before the commission August 28 and show cause why a penalty suit should not be instituted because of its failure to comply with rules of the commission.

Chicago, August 15.—(P)—Wheat prices dropped today as prospects for a bumper crop in Canada faded out. Adding to the bearishness was the fact that North American wheat dealers today were buying 200,000 bushels of hard winter wheat taken for shipment to Europe by way of the Gulf of Mexico.

being. On the contrary, hedging against newly harvested wheat, and the market continuing to move away most of the time after the harvest, has been a losing proposition, the bear slide and stressing reasons that a reaction was due after a recent advance in two days. The forecast from a British authority is that the price of wheat will continue to prospective large world supplies of wheat tended further down values, and so likewise did the price of principal export commodities from the territory south of the Canadian border. Corn provisions reflected the fact that holders of contracts for the September delivery today were at a new high price.

DEATH

Tionville, Ohio, August 15. (AP)—An attempt by the pilot of an airplane to give his passengers a thrill during a pleasure ride through the clouds today was believed responsible for the plunge of a large cabin plane into the Ohio river, near here last night, carrying two men—the pilot and a passenger—to their deaths. Three other passengers escaped.

August P. Hauck, 35, pilot, of Rosedale, L. I., and George Griffin, 35, of Bridgeport, Ohio, were those killed. Hauck and Griffin, it was found when their bodies were removed from the submerged plane some hours later, were both hurt when thrown against the instrument board. Whether their injuries or drowning caused death was undetermined.

The other three men, in rear seats, broke windows and crawled out of the cabin. Two of them—Harry Duncan, 23, and William Machin, 26, both of Martins Ferry, Ohio, swam to shore. Joseph Duncan, 47, father of Harry Duncan, injured his shoulder in shattering a window, and was aided to shore by a boatsman who was near where the plane plunged.

Joseph Duncan, who described the flight as his first, said Hauck had made several abrupt dives during the trip, and that, when the plane started what proved to be a fatal plunge, he placed his hands over his eyes as he had done on previous similar excursions. The man, he knew, he was trapped in the water-filled cabin, Duncan said. The impact with the water was not so bad as he had feared. All three men said they thought the pilot was merely giving them "the works" and that if something happened he would be in mid-air, they were unaware of it.

The Disputed Presidential Election—1876. by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

THE UNDISPUTED ELECTORAL VOTE STOOD 184 FOR TILDEN AND 165 FOR HAYES. TWENTY OTHER VOTES WERE CLAIMED BY BOTH SIDES. IF BUT ONE OF THE TWENTY WERE COUNTED FOR TILDEN, HE WOULD WIN; IF HAYES GOT ALL, HE WOULD BE ELECTED. CONGRESS COULD NOT AGREE WHICH RETURNS TO ACCEPT. MEANWHILE THE PUBLIC WAS GROWING IMPATIENT, AND THERE WERE THREATS OF CIVIL WAR.

CONGRESS SUBMITTED THE MATTER TO AN EXTRA-LEGAL ELECTORAL COMMISSION, COMPOSED OF FIVE SENATORS, FIVE REPRESENTATIVES AND FIVE SUPREME COURT JUSTICES. A MONTH PASSED. FINALLY, ON MARCH 2, 1877, JUST TWO DAYS BEFORE INAUGURATION DAY, THE COMMISSION ANNOUNCED THAT HAYES HAD WON BY A VOTE OF 8 TO 7.

JEWELRY SALESMAN AND TAXI-DRIVER HAVE HARD LUCK

Chicago, August 15.—(AP)—Morris Keen, a New York jewelry salesman, and Wilmer Kivett, an Omaha taxi driver, were found handcuffed walking along a suburban highway today. They told police they had been kidnapped in the Omaha business district by three robbers in Omaha yesterday and driven 500 miles as prisoners in an automobile until they were freed today near Chicago. The robbers took Keen's jewelry, worth $100,000, he reported.

TALMADGE ANSWERS TOBACCO QUIZ CRITIC

In demanding an investigation of suspected collusion among tobacco buyers in Georgia, Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture, replying to criticism of his action by the Douglas chamber of commerce, today stated that he had no intention of withdrawing his request to the federal trade commission for a probe of the tobacco market.

A joint meeting of the Coffee county chamber and the Douglas Kwanika club yesterday requested that Talmadge withdraw his request to the federal trade commission for a probe of the tobacco market.

Mr. Talmadge's request to the federal body maintained that according to figures of its department, a decrease in price for the opening two weeks of the current market season as compared to the corresponding period in 1927 showed a drop of 24.6 per cent in average price. Through last Saturday 28,089,810 pounds of tobacco had brought an average of $13.56 the hundred, against a figure in excess of $21 for the same period a year ago, the department's figures showed.

"This office has been receiving complaints from farmers over the tobacco belt in Georgia since the market opened asking that something be done to remedy this situation," the commissioner's letter to the Coffee county chamber and the Douglas Kwanika club stated. "In the interest of the tobacco growers of Georgia I addressed this communication to the federal trade commission with the hope that if any collusion exists among the buyers that the federal trade commission would review the same and make the necessary arrangements to correct it."

The Talmadge letter added that the commissioner is informed South Carolina and North Carolina have taken the same steps to bring the market of unsatisfactory tobacco prices before the federal commission.

A sheet of telegrams from chambers of commerce in cities of the Georgia tobacco belt this morning revealed general dissatisfaction with prevailing prices, but the majority either doubted that collusion existed or admitted lack of proof of a "ring."

Allen M. Schoen Passes Suddenly

Allen M. Schoen, chief engineer of the Southeastern Underwriters' association, died suddenly from a heart attack at his apartment on Northeast Fifth street early Wednesday morning.

Mr. Schoen was a prominent member of the association, which broke down two weeks ago, was placed in service again Wednesday. The pump had been placed out of commission by the breaking of a high-pressure piston, which bent the eight-inch piston rod.

Mrs. Ellen Hudgins, laid to final rest.

Body of Holliday to Arrive Today at Savannah Port

The body of Harry S. Holliday, 47, prominent Atlanta and official of the Southeastern Underwriters' association, who died Monday night on the steamship City of Birmingham, while en route with his wife from New York to Savannah, will arrive in Savannah early today and will be sent to Atlanta.

Joseph S. Raine, secretary of the Underwriters' association, left Atlanta Wednesday to be present in Savannah when the liner docked. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

A. Q. Beem Dies at Fitzgerald, Ga.; Former Atlantan

Fitzgerald, Ga., August 15.—(Special).—A. Q. Beem, former resident of Atlanta, died here today at the age of 71. Surviving him are his widow, two sons, C. E. and V. S. Beem, of Atlanta, and one daughter, Miss Jessie Beem, of this city. Funeral services will be held here tomorrow, with interment in the local cemetery.
